Increases here steady, but slow

Flu cases upgraded to widespread

By MARK CAMPBELL
Courier staff report

There has been an increase in flu cases across the country and Jefferson County and Southern Indiana are no exception.

The Indiana State Department of Health recently upgraded flu from regional to widespread in Indiana, and the department reported four flu-related deaths in the state so far this season. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's weekly report from the week ending Dec. 7, there have been 2.6 million flu illnesses and 23,000 hospitalizations across the United States.

Tammy Monroe, administrator at the Jefferson County Health Department, said calculating the number of people affected by flu locally is more difficult because Jefferson County and the local King's Daughters' Health network are not required to report flu statistics to the state.

"We've not got a lot of details because the flu is not required to be reported so it's hard to say how many cases we've had," Monroe said.

Marsha Chapman, an infection-prevention nurse at KDH, does track flu cases throughout that system of clinics and hospital and the numbers have been edging up over the past week.

Chapman said KDH was seeing positive flu tests results in the mid-20s last week but the number was up into the 30s this week — including nine positive tests on Thursday.

"We're seeing an increase," Chapman said. "But those numbers are totals for all of our offices."

Monroe said the situation was serious enough last week that the Health Department recommended closing one local elementary school that was experiencing high absenteeism among students and faculty with flu or flu-like illnesses on Friday, Dec. 13.

"Once a school hits 20% absenteeism they have to report that to us and we make a decision on whether to recommend if they should close," Monroe said. "We asked them to close Friday to give them time to sanitize the school and students a few days away from each other. According to the school nurse, most of the students who were out tested positive for the flu."

The school was Rykers' Ridge Elementary, which saw 25 percent of its students and several teachers call in sick Thursday, Dec. 12. Ashley Schutte, communications coordinator for Madison Consolidated Schools, said attendance had been better at Rykers' Ridge and the Madison district this week but there were still kids out sick and others trying to push through to the end of the semester and get through final exams.

"It's not as bad as it was, but they're trying to limp through and tough it out through finals," Schutte said.

Holiday changes in publications

It's that season of the year when we adjust our schedules because of the holidays.

Because Christmas and New Year's are on Wednesdays this year, we will publish only two newspapers each week, one on Tuesday and the other on Saturday. We will not have a Thursday edition either week.

We will return to our normal Tuesday-Thursday-Saturday publication effective the week of Jan. 5, 2020. For our home-delivery subscribers, your subscription will be extended two extra days to make up for the two Thursdays we won't publish.

When we're not in print, we'll see you at www.madisoncourier.com

SHOPPING WITH A COP

The police cars were ready and the officers were standing by Thursday night as area law enforcement officers took more than 50 children Christmas shopping.

The annual Christmas with a Cop program spent the evening at Walmart on the lookout for necessities — and some fun items — as the young people and officers from the Jefferson County Sheriff's Department and Madison and Hanover police departments helped the children and their families. The children also got a surprise donation of shoes from Shoe Sensation,

Senior Patrolman Seth Melton of MPD said this year's shopping went smoothly. They set up for the children to meet at the officers at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1969. After pizza and photos with Santa, it was into the police cars and to Walmart for more shopping.

By ELISABETH MOORE
Courier staff writer

A 13-year-old is taking Carrollton by storm as she continuously makes wreaths for her mother's store.

Karlee Smith, who has Down Syndrome and is autistic, uses her hands, feet and whatever else she can to create detailed and colorful wreaths of all shapes and sizes

Starting just before Halloween this year, Karlee began making wreaths for her mother's store. She has used YouTube to learn how to make the wreaths ..

The store is named Karlee's Place and is run by Tisha Smith, Karlee's mother. The shop is named for Karlee. It only recently started selling the wreaths she makes. Before the wreaths took over a wall dedicated to Karlee, Tisha focused on selling consignment items such as clothing, jewelry and other items.

Tisha said Karlee became interested in creating wreaths after looking at one by celebrity Ree Drummond, otherwise known as The Pioneer Woman. Because Karlee's disabilities keep her home a lot, Tisha said she picked up wreath-making fairly easily by using Youtube Tutorials.

Tisha estimated that by mid-December Karlee had already made about 64 wreaths in the near two months since she started. A majority of the wreaths have been sold to family, friends and people who shop at Karlee's Place, though there are always new wreaths being sold at the shop.

Tisha said that it is very impressive that Karlee has learned to create so many wreaths. She now creates circle wreaths, candy cane-shaped wreaths and most recently cross-shaped wreaths.

Each big wreath is sold for $15 and smaller wreaths for $8. Tisha said Karlee likes making money, so all of the money collected from wreath sales goes toward Karlee, who hopes to buy a wig because her hair has started to fall out from a weakened immune system.

While Tisha said wreath-making is an expensive hobby to help fund, she does appreciate seeing all her daughter can do. While Karlee cannot always make it to Karlee's Place, Tisha said that anyone can come in to see the wreaths and to see an example of how anyone can do anything.

For more information, go to Karlee's Place Facebook page.

Woman gets 4 years for fatal school bus stop crash

Indiana

ROCHESTER — An Indiana woman who plowed her pickup truck into four children, killing three of them, while they crossed a highway to board a school bus was sentenced Wednesday to four years in prison. Alyssa Shepherd, 25, could have been sentenced to as much as 21½ years in prison for the Oct. 30, 2018, crash that killed 6-year-old twin brothers Xzavier and Mason Ingle, and their 9-year-old sister, Alivia Stahl. The children's mother, Brittany Ingle, lunged toward Shepherd in the Fulton County courtroom. She was removed in handcuffs and charged with misdemeanor battery. A jury convicted Shepherd on Oct. 18 of three counts of reckless homicide, criminal recklessness and passing a school bus, causing injury. The judge on Wednesday sentenced her to four years in prison, three years of house arrest and three years of probation, and suspended her driver's license for 10 years. The children were struck while they crossed two-lane State Road 25 in Rochester to board the bus. A fourth child, Maverik Lowe, 11, suffered critical injuries and has had more than 20 surgeries. At the time of her arrest, Shepherd told authorities she didn't realize that she was approaching a stopped school bus, despite the activated stop arm and flashing lights. Court documents show Shepherd told police she saw the lights but didn't recognize the vehicle as a school bus until the children were right in front of her. After the crash, the Indiana Legislature increased penalties for drivers who illegally pass stopped school buses.

Goodyear buys Raben Tire Co. in Evansville

EVANSVILLE — Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company has purchased an Evansville-based company that's one of the Midwest's largest tire and service companies.

Goodyear announced Monday it had bought Raben Tire Company in a stock deal that includes all of Raben Tire's businesses. Goodyear spokeswoman Barbara Hatala said Raben will become part of Goodyear's company-owned network but will continue to operate with its own name for the immediate future. Raben was founded in Evansville in 1952 and now includes more than 30 tire and service locations, multiple retread production plants, a specialty tire house and wholesale distribution centers. Raben has been owned since 2014 by affiliates of Palladium Equity Partners, LLC, a New York City-based middle market private equity firm with about $3 billion in assets under management. Akron, Ohio-based Goodyear is one of the world's largest tire companies, with 47 manufacturing facilities in 21 nations.

Allen board rejects Muslim cemetery

FORT WAYNE — A plan for a cemetery for Muslims was rejected Wednesday in Allen County. The Board of Zoning Appeals voted 4-1 to turn down a proposal to use a field near U.S. 27, south of Fort Wayne. The Muslim Community Help Center said there would be room for 3,648 graves, with bodies placed in concrete vaults. Neighbors voiced concerns, including a media company that operates radio stations near the site.

Coroner: 3 die in rural house fire near Muncie

MUNCIE — An overnight fire killed three people in a house, west of Muncie. The victims likely were a teenager and her grandparents, Delaware County Coroner Rick Howell told The Star Press.

The fire at the rural home was reported to emergency dispatchers at 1:50 a.m. Thursday. The house was destroyed. The superintendent of Wes-Del schools, Kyle Mealy, said the district and the Gaston community "collectively mourn the loss of this student as well as the other two family members involved." Joe Hart told WTHR-TV that he drove from Indianapolis when he heard the news about his friends. "I know they had wood-burning stoves, and I know they loved fire, too. We always had lots of bonfires and camp regularly," Hart said.

New charges file in Newton County slaying

KENTLAND — New charges of murder and conspiracy to commit murder have been filed against a woman in the slaying of a woman in northwestern Indiana. Ashley Garth, 27 of Delphi wept in court Wednesday when the new charges were filed against her in the March 29 strangulation death of Nicole Bowen, 30, of West Lafayette, the Journal and Courier reported. New DNA results led to the new charges, Newton County Prosecutor Jeff Drinski said. He declined to reveal what the DNA results show. Bowen's body was found in a hunting shack near the Iroquois River. Court documents say Garett Kirts, 21, of Lebanon, who's also charged with murder in the case, told police that the two women began fighting at a mobile home north of Kentland. Garth was Kirts' girlfriend at the time. Kirts told a detective that as the two women fought, he put Bowen in a choke hold from behind and she collapsed, documents say. Kirts told the detective he tied a scarf around Bowen's neck, followed by brown extension cord. Garth previously was charged with assisting a criminal.

Man gets 3 years for firing shots at Walmart

CROWN POINT — A man who claimed he was acting in self-defense when he fired shots into a busy northwestern Indiana Walmart store has been sentenced to three years in prison. Alex C. Hughes, 27, was convicted in November of felony criminal recklessness in the September 2018, shooting that shattered a Walmart store window in Hobart, frightening shoppers. The Gary man was acquitted of attempted murder and aggravated battery charges and a criminal organization enhancement. Hughes fired 16 shots, four of which hit the Walmart, while about 200 people were inside the store, Lake County Supervisory Deputy Prosecutor Michael Toth said during Wednesday's sentencing. Lake Criminal Court Judge Salvador Vasquez told Hughes that while jurors determined that he had acted in self-defense when he shot a purported rival gang member during a shootout, they found he did not act reasonably when he fired multiple rounds into the store. "You continued to fire your weapon after all danger had passed," Vasquez told Hughes, adding that his actions "brought hesitation to people who should not hesitate to come into a public place." Kyran J. Hawthorne Sr., 26, of Gary, and his then-9-year-old son were wounded during a shootout between Hughes and a man who accompanied Hawthorne and others to the store, The (Northwest Indiana) Times reported. Police said Hughes and Hawthorne were members of rival Gary gangs. Defense attorney Russell Brown said Hughes "didn't do a drive-by" at the Walmart and that the shots which hit the store were intended for Hawthorne.

Kentucky

Warren could lose curbside recycling

BOWLING GREEN — A Kentucky county may lose its curbside recycling service as its main provider struggles under increasing processing costs. Warren County is trying to determine how to move forward if Southern Recycling stops service before its contract is scheduled to end this summer, Judge-Executive Mike Buchanon told the Bowling Green Daily News on Wednesday. The company loses up to $50,000 a month by picking up residents' recyclables, Southern Recycling President Rob Rutherford said. He said it costs more to process the materials than the company can make from them. Southern Recycling sorts materials locally rather than in an industrial-size plant, the company said. A magnetic separation system would exceed what it would be able to recoup at $10 million, Rutherford added. Local customers pay $2.65 a month for the service but that would rise to up to $18 a month to support current expenses. China restricted its import of paper, plastic and other recyclables in 2018, causing global scrap prices to plummet. Many waste-hauling companies passed the cost of sorting and baling recyclables on to municipalities, prompting communities to downsize or suspend curbside recycling programs altogether. Buchanon said the county is "actively searching" for alternatives and hopes to find a solution soon. "We'd hate to give up what has been considered a model program in Kentucky."

Shelby joins counties with Real ID licenses

FRANKFORT — Residents of Shelby County will be able to apply for a special driver's license that will be needed next fall to board domestic airline flights. Shelby residents who have an existing driver's license, permit or personal identification may go to Transportation Cabinet headquarters in Frankfort to apply for a Voluntary Travel ID that will meet Real ID requirements, the cabinet said in a news release. Current driver's licenses and ID cards and new standard cards will not be accepted to board domestic flights or access restricted federal buildings starting Oct. 1. To apply for the Voluntary Travel ID, residents need proof of ID, proof of Social Security number and two recent proofs of residency. A list of acceptable documents is available online. The Frankfort driver's license office will continue to accept applications from Franklin, Anderson, Owen, Henry and Scott counties, as well as Shelby County. The Shelby County circuit court clerk's office will continue to provide standard driver's licenses, permits and personal IDs that do not comply with Real ID requirements.

5 sisters officially adopted by foster family

HAWESVILLE — A Kentucky couple has officially adopted a group of five sisters who they have been fostering since 2016. Aubrey, 11, and her four sisters, ranging in age from 4 to 10, were officially adopted by Whitney and James Meserve on Tuesday, WFIE-TV reported. Aubrey told the station that it's a relief to end up exactly where they wanted. The Meserves adopted another pair of siblings in February, meaning they now have one child in pre-school, four in elementary and two in middle school. "You just adjust to it," Whitney said. "I mean people are like 'seven kids? Are y'all crazy?' It's just our way of life." She said they haven't ruled out fostering or adopting again in the future.

Whitley Co. resident to be 'Survivor' all-star

WILLIAMSBURG — A Kentucky man who won the reality TV show "Survivor" last year will put his skills to the test again during it's upcoming season when he returns to compete in an all-star round for $2 million. Nick Wilson, a University of Kentucky graduate from Whitley County, was announced Wednesday as one of the cast members of the show's 40th season, "Survivor: Winners at War" which premieres in February, news outlets reported. He'll compete against 20 other former winners from the show's two-decade run for the largest prize in reality TV competition history. Wilson won the 37th season last fall. His appearance will mark the third time in four seasons that someone with Whitley County ties will be represented on the show.

Agreement reached to raise tobacco purchasing age

By JOHN BOYLE
(Jeffersonville & New Albany) News and Tribune

Congressional lawmakers from both sides of the aisle are expected to support increasing the legal age to buy tobacco in a vote this week.

In a morning news conference, U.S. Sen. Todd Young, R-Indiana, announced that legislators have agreed to include a provision in a yearend government funding package that would prevent anyone younger than 21 from purchasing tobacco products, including e-cigarettes. The push to raise the current age of 18 has been a bipartisan effort taken up by both chambers of Congress in recent months, and now looks to be on its way to the books.

"We've got perhaps the most important public health measure in place that is achievable in this political atmosphere," Young said. "It's going to save a lot of lives, a lot of money, improve the productivity of our workers, ensure that our military is more ready. [It has] many broad implications, but it's especially important to the state of Indiana in light of tobacco usage in our state and the high rates of teen tobacco use." Young has played a role in spearheading the initiative. In April, he introduced the Tobacco to 21 Act with fellow U.S. Senators Brian Schatz, D-Hawaii, Dick Durbin, D-Illinois, and Mitt Romney, R-Utah. A similar bill was also put forward in the House of Representatives.

Contents of the legislation later made its way through the Senate Health, Education, Labor and Pensions Committee as a component of the Lower Health Care Costs Act in June. Now, some of those provisions are set to be included in a larger congressional spending package agreed upon by the Senate and House on Tuesday.

The legislation, Young said, will help prevent young people from developing tobacco addiction — often through the use of e-cigarettes — at an early age, an increasingly common occurrence in recent years.

"In fact, over a one-year period from 2017 to 2018, we saw almost a 40% increase year on year the number of middle school students who had access to tobacco products," he said. "High school students, the number was even more alarming. It was 80 percent, so I knew that we had to act..."

Statistics show that smoking-related diseases kill roughly 1,300 people a day in the United States. According to the National Academy of Medicine, raising the legal age to purchase tobacco products could decrease that total by 12%. Rates of tobacco and e-cigarette use exceed the national average in Indiana, both in adult and teenage populations. Millions of middle and high school students in the country often develop such habits before the age of 21, which has been a cause of concern for many.

"I spend a lot of time meeting with students, teachers and faculty at schools across Southern Indiana, and reducing tobacco use among teenagers is often cited by faculty and school administrators as the number one issue affecting the well-being of our Hoosier youth," said Ninth District U.S. Rep. Trey Hollingsworth, R-Indiana. Two versions of the legislation were presented in the Senate, including the one co-sponsored by Young and another introduced by Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell, R-Kentucky, and Tim Kaine, D-Virginia.

Though very similar to each other, the latter was eventually chosen to be included in the spending package. The legislation does not include a mandate that states change their laws to match the age threshold, but they will be required to ensure those younger than 21 are not sold tobacco products by retailers. States that fail to do so risk losing eligibility for block grant funding.

"Our legislation would indeed come with consequences," Young said. "When you're talking about protecting middle school and high school students, there needs to be consequences to incentivize people to proper behavior."

Increasing the age at the state-level has been discussed in Indiana for years. Though it has yet to come to fruition, Washington, D.C., and 19 other states — including neighboring states Illinois and Ohio — have already implemented such measures.

Dupont man guilty of drug charges, neglect of dependent

Courier staff report

A Jefferson County jury has found a Dupont man guilty of multiple felony drug charges and neglect of a dependent in connection with an arrest on Reynolds Road last summer.

Law enforcement officers were investigating the residence of Johnny Wood, 10958 Reynolds Road, Dupont, for suspected methamphetamine activity last summer when Indiana State Police applied for and received a search warrant for the residence on July 25. During the execution of the warrant, methamphetamine was found in multiple locations, including on Wood. He admitted that he was a middle man who set up meth deals and further admitted that he had been consuming methamphetamine on the property for about eight months. A search of Wood's cell phone revealed numerous messages from people asking to buy meth from Wood and a garage on the property was found to contain numerous small plastic bags, digital scales, and multiple items of drug paraphernalia. Wood's 2-year-old child was present during the execution of the search warrant.

On Thursday, November 19, Wood was convicted of multiple felonies, including dealing methamphetamine, and possession of methamphetamine, both Level 5 felonies, and maintaining a common nuisance and neglect of a dependent, both Level 6 felonies.

"The members of the jury carefully considered all evidence. I thank them for their service and commitment in listening to hours of testimony and thoughtfully deliberating before reaching their verdicts," Prosecutor David Sutter said, thanking the jury.

Sutter also recognized the work of the officers who investigated the case.

"I want to give a special thanks to Trooper Randel Miller, Trooper David Owsley, and Trooper Joe May for their excellent work on this case. We were able to secure this conviction based upon their dedication to investigate methamphetamine use and distribution in Jefferson County," said Sutter.

This case was prosecuted by Sutter and Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Elizabeth Stigdon.

Wood will be sentenced in Jefferson Circuit Court Wednesday, Jan. 15, 2020.

Fingerprint match puts Hanover man under arrest in burglary case

By Mark Campbell
Courier Staff report

TODD RICHARD ASH

A fingerprint recovered as evidence at the scene of an August burglary in Madison has fingered a Jefferson County man in that case after a fingerprint left at the crime scene was matched by the Indiana State Police Laboratory.

Todd Richard Ash, 35, of Hanover, was arrested by Indiana State Police Wednesday after fingerprints collected at an Aug. 1 burglary in downtown Madison connected him to that crime.

Detective Nathaniel Adams of the ISP Versailles Post investigated the burglary in the 1200 Block of West Main Street and recovered evidence, including the latent fingerprint, that was later matched to Ash. Adams' report said the home had been entered, ransacked and burglarized of numerous items.

In November, Adams received notification that the Indiana State Police Laboratory had matched the latent fingerprint he recovered at the crime scene to one that was on file of Ash. A felony warrant was issued for Ash but it wasn't until Wednesday that he was taken into custody as a passenger in a vehicle stopped by police.

Seeing Ash in the vehicle, troopers from the Indiana State Police-Versailles All Crimes Policing Team stopped the vehicle Wednesday and Ash was found to be in possession of methamphetamine, a legend drug, and a syringe.

After being interviewed by ISP detectives, Ash was arrested on charges of burglary, possession of methamphetamine, possession of a legend drug, and possession of a syringe. He was transported to the Jefferson County Jail where he was incarcerated, pending his initial appearance in Jefferson County Circuit Court.

The investigation is ongoing and additional charges against Ash are possible.

Ash has previous convictions for illegal entry, burglary and theft charges as well as multiple charges for driving while suspended. He most recently had been arrested on Nov. 25 for breaking into a 2009 Toyota Camry at the Taco Bell parking lot in Madison, a case that is still pending in Jefferson Circuit Court.

May the miracle of Christmas fill you and your loved ones with inspiration, hope and joy. Your friendship has been a bright spot in our year. Merry Christmas and many thanks.

Betty Collins

She was born March 1, 1932 in Indianapolis to Bernard Louis and Esther McCartney Wilson. She spent her early life in Indianapolis and traveled back and forth to Madison but graduated from Emmerich Manuel High School in Indianapolis in 1950. She was a devoted wife, loving mom and grandma who enjoyed raising her family and caring for their needs. She attended Indiana University Southeast and received a bachelor's degree in accounting in 1982, allowing her to pass the exam to become a CPA. She was a bookkeeper for the Madison Coal Company, Madison Marina, Croxton Motors, Wilco Electric, Glass Unlimited and Sherman Barber and Mullikin. She was member of Trinity United Methodist Church in Madison and was the church bookkeeper. She also found great enjoyment in music, flowers, traveling, reading, knitting, crocheting, her cats, and above all, her family. She was a fierce card player and held membership in the multiple card clubs where she enjoyed playing Euchre. She also was a longtime member of the Psi Iota Xi Sorority.

Survivors include her children, David A. Collins of Fort Wayne, Indiana, John Collins of Madison, Indiana, Laura Strong of Deputy, Indiana, Williams Fletcher "Biff" Collins Jr. of Columbus, Indiana, and Jenny L. Rowlett of Canaan, Indiana; her sisters, Ann Harper of Columbus and Sharon Beach of Maui, Hawaii; and 19 grandchildren, 15 great-grandchildren, and several nieces, nephews and other relatives.

She was preceded in death by her parents; her husband, Williams "Bill" Fletcher Collins; a sister, Rosamond Lee "Rosa" Lynch Schoening; and a brother, James Howard Wilson.

At her request, there will be a celebration at the Trinity United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall in downtown Madison at 4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 21, 2019. She will be remembered in a service conducted by her Sorority Sisters of the Psi Iota Xi at 6 p.m. Saturday. Interment for both she and her husband is tentatively scheduled for Sunday, May 24 at the Indiana Veterans Memorial Cemetery in Madison, followed by an outdoor gathering.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society. Cards are available at the Morgan & Nay Funeral Centres of Madison and Hanover or at the Trinity United Methodist Church. Online condolences, www.morgan-nay.com

Let Us Pause to Honor the Memory of

Mrs. Betty "Bug" Lourene Wilson Collins

Mrs. Betty Lourene Wilson Collins, age 87, of Madison, Indiana entered this life on March 1, 1932 in Indianapolis, Indiana. She was the loving daughter of the late Bernard Louis and Esther McCartney Wilson. Betty spent her early life in Indianapolis and traveled back and forth to Madison and graduated from Emmerich Manual High School in 1950. In 1953 Betty was united in marriage to her sweetheart, Williams "Bill" Fletcher Collins. This happy union was blessed with five children, David, John, Laura, Biff and Jenny. Betty was a devoted wife, loving mom and grandma. She dearly enjoyed raising her family and caring for their needs. Betty attended Indiana University Southeast and received her Bachelors in Accounting in 1982. This allowed her to pass the exam to become a CPA. Betty loved numbers and was a fantastic bookkeeper for several local companies, including the Madison Coal Company, Madison Marina, Croxton Motors, Wilco Electric, Glass Unlimited, and Sherman & Barber. She was a faithful member of Trinity United Methodist Church in downtown Madison and had also served as the bookkeeper there until her death. She found great enjoyment in music, flowers, her cats, traveling, reading, knitting, crocheting, and above all, her family. She was a fierce card player and held membership in multiple card clubs where she enjoyed playing Euchre. When the Madison Water Aerobics began Betty signed up and rarely missed a class since. She also was a long-time member of the Psi Iota Xi Sorority. If you knew Betty, you were blessed by her smile, warm spirit and kindness. She fought a gallant battle against cancer and departed this world at 7:00 p.m. on Tuesday, December 17, 2019 at her home in downtown Madison.

A LOVING FAMILY

Betty will be missed by her loving children, David A. Collins of Fort Wayne Indiana; John W. Collins and his wife, Beatriss of Madison Indiana; Laura M. Strong and her companion, Steve Burchett of Deputy Indiana; Williams F. "Biff" Collins, Jr. and his wife, Robin of Columbus Indiana; Jenny L. Correctional facilities' busy hands work to keep kids warm

More than 100 children in the Madison Consolidated School corporation will get new sets of hats, scarves and gloves this winter, thanks to an idea from one Madison Correctional Facility inmate.

Erika Bruner, 30, was never interested in knitting while growing up in Kosciusko County. Her grandmother was an avid knitter and tried teaching her, but she never took to it.

But it was after she landed in Madison Correctional Facility a couple years ago for possession of methamphetamine that she rediscovered knitting as a way to pass the time, and eventually, make an indirect amendment for past mistakes.

"I came to prison and I saw all these amazing items women crocheted; they crocheted animals, hats, scarves — it's just amazing what they can do in here."

Wanting to keep her hands busy, Bruner finally took up knitting with some of the other inmates. It didn't take long for her to catch on, and she spent seven months making her first project — a blanket to fit her bed.

She was also enrolled in a 12-step recovery while incarcerated (RWI) program at the time, learning lessons about righting past wrongs and helping others. That got Bruner thinking about the women in the prison who couldn't afford yarn for knitting projects. Then she thought about the need in the greater community.

"I was thinking 'if people could come together and at least one item from everyone who knows how to crochet, and actually donate it to the kids out in the community, we could make a big difference," Bruner said.

Bruner didn't know how to knit the items she wanted to provide, but that didn't stop her from running the idea past prison supervisors and getting it approved. Debbie Sparks, the community services director at the facility, reached out to MCS and offered to donate the items once completed. They were happy to accept.

"We were absolutely thrilled to partner with them as we have a number of students who could benefit from such a lovely and practical gesture," Ashley Schutte, communications coordinator for MCS said in a statement.

Women throughout the prison, even those who didn't know how to crochet, soon got involved. Before long, inmates who had never met were teaching one another and working in groups in the prison day room to get the project done.

"Most of these women in here, they know how to crochet," Bruner said. "It's a good coping skill and it passes the time — keeps us out of trouble. So the more people that were involved, the more items we could create and the more people we could help. And it helped give them the idea of doing something for somebody else without expecting anything in return."

A few weeks later, staff from the prison arrived at Madison Consolidated High School with boxes of winter wear for each school in the district — over 100 sets in total. Counselors from each school sorted the items by size and color and took a box with them to distribute to their kids depending on need.

"These handcrafted items were beautiful....each set was packaged with a ribbon and the colors and styles varied for both boys and girls," Schutte said. "As the weather turns cold, we ask that everyone be as considerate of others as these ladies were for those who may have needs but may not have a voice or available resources. MCS is forever grateful for the difference these items will make for some of our students."

And Bruner is grateful for the difference something as simple as knitting can make in prison life. After she gets out in July of 2021, she said, she'd like to gather volunteers and teach knitting to inmates at the Jefferson County Jail, where there isn't a lot for prisoners to do. A hobby like knitting can give inmates something to look forward to and a sense of purpose, she said.

"The earlier you target that, the better chance people have for their own future," Bruner said.

• Flu

don't report back until Monday, Jan. 6. Schutte said the hope is that by the time students and faculty return next year, the flu bug will no longer be lingering. However, holiday travel could expose more people to flu germs so the break may or may not curb the spread.

It's not too late to get a flu shot if you can find a pharmacy or clinic that still has a supply of the vaccine. Monroe said the health department is out of flu vaccine for insured patients who could get the shot elsewhere, but has a very limited supply of vaccine for uninsured patients between ages 6 and 64 an even lesser supply of the high dosage vaccine for patients older than 65.

Chapman said King's Daughter' Health has plenty of the vaccine including the stronger dosage for seniors older than 65.

"We've got a really good purchasing director here so we ordered like 8,000 doses. That was enough for all of our employees to be vaccinated and enough left over to vaccinate patients at our clinics," Chapman said. "We actually donated enough to vaccinate anyone at the Salvation Army downtown for free who didn't have insurance."

Monroe and Chapman did not know what local pharmacies or other clinics still have flu vaccine on hand, but both noted they had heard reports of supply getting low or running out at some locations.

"I know we've shared with pharmacies. We'd get a shipment and send them some if they were out and they'd get a shipment and send us some if we were out," Monroe said. "But we won't be getting any more this year. We've received our last shipment and we're about out."

It's not too late for the flu shot to help. Chapman said getting a flu shot through KDH is as easy as visiting the KDH Convenient Care Center on Clifty Drive or scheduling an appointment at one of the other clinics in the system. However, it takes about two weeks for the vaccine to reach full effect.

Monroe pointed out that perhaps the best way to avoid the spread of flu is through due diligence such as washing hands, staying home from work or school when sick and covering up when coughing or sneezing.

"The No. 1 way to keep from getting the flu is to wash your hands, wash your hands and wash your hands," Monroe said. "And if you are sick, stay home from work or school until you are fever-free for at least 24 hours without fever medication."

Meanwhile, the number of flu cases has been high in the region — the CDC also identified the flu as widespread in Kentucky, and Norton Healthcare reports that there were 47 percent more flu cases last week than in the previous week in the Louisville and Southern Indiana area.

Dr. Tom Harris, health officer for the Floyd County Health Department, said he has noticed more flu cases over the past week in Southern Indiana.

He is also a physician with Floyd Emergency Medicine Associates in New Albany.

"It's actually been more of the northern part of the state, but we, locally, have seen an increase in cases in the last week," he said. "I think it was a reasonable decision for the CDC to upgrade it. In some ways, [the upgrade] works out good, because it gets people aware of the flu — it's not a theoretical risk, it's an actual risk to their health."

Brittany Amick, infection-prevention manager for Baptist Health Floyd, said the hospital has seen 44 positive flu cases so far, and the majority have been Type A flu.

This is similar to the number of cases the hospital faced last year at this time of year, and she expects to see a spike in the number of flu cases after the holidays. Last year, there was an increase in flu cases after Dec. 23.

"Everyone needs to remember good hand hygiene will protect them from the flu virus," she said. "Carry pocket hand sanitizer with you. Good times to sanitize [are] after going to the grocery store, pumping gas or shaking hands with someone."

At this point, it's too early to say how bad this flu season will be, Harris said.

"Our approach is just to assume that every year is bad and just to get many people immunized early," he said.

Harris also said he has mostly been seeing strains of Type A flu over the past week.

"One of the things we're seeing so far is that strains of flu are largely covered by the vaccine," he said. "Some years, there's a good match, and some years, there is not a good match. In the past few years, we've had cases where the flu vaccine was not a good match, and it looks like this year, that's not the case. It looks like this year it matches pretty good. There's still going to be resistant strains, but on the whole, the best way to treat the flu is to not get it in the first place with a vaccine."

Laura Lindley, administrative director for the Clark County Health Department, did not provide specific information regarding the flu cases in Clark County, but she said there has been a "steady flow" of people receiving flu shots from the health department.

Harris said the high dose flu shot for the elderly might be more difficult to find, but they should at least receive the regular flu shot. Young children, those ages 65 or older and pregnant women are among the most at-risk populations, along with those with weakened immune systems. In addition to stressing the importance of vaccinations, he urges people to remember "the stuff that your mom taught you," including frequent hand washing, covering the mouth when coughing or sneezing and using sleeves instead of hands to cover coughs or sneezes.

"When someone gets a vaccination or immunization, it not only protects them, it protects the people who are around them," Lindley said. "That's the importance of getting a flu shot. It depends on your health status. People who are very young, seniors or immune-compromised are very susceptible to a more severe illness and possible death if they don't get the vaccine. Then of course, if people don't get the vaccine and they become ill, they're contagious, and if they go work, they spread it among their co-workers, or if they're out they'll spread it."

Andrea Tanner, health services coordinator at New Albany-Floyd County Consolidated School Corp., said the school corporation has seen sporadic cases of the flu, but it has not seen a significant increase over the past few weeks across the county's schools.

Teresa Stengel, supervisor of health services at Greater Clark County Schools, also hasn't seen an increase in flu cases in the school system. There are typically more students with the flu around the end of January or early February, she said. Individual schools will notify her if absenteeism reaches at least 20 percent, but she has not received any notifications so far this season.

Across the United States, at least 1,300 people have died so far this flu season, according to a recent report from the CDC. Those who have died because of the flu in Indiana were all ages 65 or older.

Lady Cubs off to best start since 2013-14

Madison's girls basketball has accomplished a lot of things throughout a strong first half of the season, but one thing the Lady Cubs haven't had to do was overcome adversity. Until now.

Madison entered Thursday's game without the services of starter Lundun Perry and lost leading scorer Jade Nutley to fouls late in the game, but the Cubs still found a way to pull out a 66-52 victory over Jennings County at home in Hoosier Hills Conference action.

While the game wasn't pretty at times, it was the type of contest that the Cubs needed.

"I knew that (the team) had two options, either to step up or to take a step back. I thought we took a step up tonight," Madison coach Sonja Bowyer said. "I thought several people really stepped up. Abby Ferguson came off the bench and wasn't hesitant at all. She came in and played brilliant in Jade's role and that's hard to do with three minutes to go. We could have folded then but we didn't."

Madison (8-3, 3-1 HHC) found itself in an eight-point hole (22-14) early in the second quarter but a quick 10-0 run put the Cubs on top and they never trailed again. But it wasn't easy, especially as fouls started to mount.

Nutley, Madison's 6-foot-1 junior all-star candidate, was bottled up all night by a Jennings team that was determined to deny her the ball. But as the game wore on, the Cubs found other ways to score and it was Taylor Lynch who had the biggest impact.

The sophomore guard, who wasn't even in the starting lineup when the season began, took over the action in the second half and scored a career-high 22 points on 5-of-7 shooting. She was also 8-of-10 at the free-throw line as she continually attacked the Panther defense and took it upon herself to ice the win.

"She's unbelievable. This kid surprises me every single time that she comes out on the floor," Bowyer said. "I keep putting more and more on her shoulders and she keeps stepping up to the plate. Those free throws were crucial coming down the line."

Nutley broke away for 12 points and nine rebounds but she fouled out with 2:35 to play and was forced to watch the rest of the game from the bench. At the time, Madison led only 56-51 and the game was very much in doubt.

After some initial trouble, Madison rediscovered its equilibrium thanks in large part to Lynch, who drew a foul and sank both shots. That sequence seemed to settle the Cubs, who then went 8-of-10 from the foul line down the stretch to seal the win.

After going 21-for-21 at the free-throw line in a win over Seymour last week, Madison went 16-for-22 on free throws Thursday, an 86% clip over the past two games.

"We were terrible at the line earlier in the year and I swear I was making them shoot 50 each in practice every day," Bowyer said with a smile. "I think it's paid off."

Along with Lynch and Nutley, senior Harper Watson stepped in for the ill Perry and scored 10 points, including a 3-pointer right off the bat to open Madison's scoring on the night.

BOYS BASKETBALL

Injured Rebels no match for Jeff

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Courier Staff Writer

JEFFERSONVILLE — Some take solace in whatever doesn't kill you maybe makes you stronger. If that's the case, Southwestern's boys basketball team should be the strongest team in the state by the end of the year.

The Class 2A No. 8 Rebels played their second-straight game without two key starters Wednesday and the result was a predictable 82-43 loss to a powerhouse Jeffersonville club on the road.

Injuries to junior Matthew Williams and sophomore Zach Cole have left the Rebels digging deep into their inexperienced bench for players and have forced regular starters Foster Mefford and Austin Kramer to shoulder nearly the entire scoring load.

Throw in the fact that the injuries have come during Southwestern's toughest stretch on its schedule and it's been a long past seven days for the Rebels.

"Number one, that's a pretty good team. And second thing, when we have to count on guys who don't do the little things, it just kills us," Southwestern coach Jerry Bomholt said. "We're trying to count on jayvee players and inexperienced players and we just can't do that."

Mefford and Kramer combined to score 52 points in the Rebels' 12-point loss to Thurgood Marshall (Ohio) last Saturday, but the duo found points much more difficult against a Jeffersonville squad that was spoiling for revenge.

Southwestern had hammered the Red Devils 79-52 a year ago, but found itself down 19-7 after the first quarter and it only got worse as Jeffersonville scored easy points off transition and used its size advantage to clean up on the glass.

Jeffersonville (3-2) jumped ahead 39-16 at halftime and led 57-24 after three quarters.

Kramer finished the game with 14 points to lead Southwestern while Mefford had 12. The two Rebel leaders struggled for every point, with each going just 4-of-13 from the floor, part of a 27 percent (13-for-49) perfor-

COURIER STAFF REPORT
sports@madisoncourier.com

Switzerland County shrugged off a slow start to pick up a 49-41 win at Trimble County on Thursday, the Lady Pacers' ninth-straight win.

Trimble led 11-3 after the first quarter and still held a 22-16 lead at halftime. But Switzerland took control over the final two quarters and outscored the host Raiders 33-19 to pull away to the win.

Aleiah Thomas scored 21 points and had 10 rebounds to lead Switzerland while Jessie Duvall had 12 points and five rebounds and Maddie Duvall had six points and six rebounds. Josie Meyer scored six points.

Shelby Wilcoxson had 14 points and Colby O'Connor had 13 to lead Trimble County. Emma Ginn added eight points.

Trimble, now 2-5 on the season, travels to Louisville Atherton on Friday. The Raiders will then compete in the Lady Gator Holiday Classic at Greenwood starting Friday, Dec. 27.

Switzerland County, now 10-1 on the season, is off to one of its best starts in program history and the Pacers' nine-game win streak is Switzerland's longest since winning 10-straight in the 2002-03 season.

The Pacers will attempt to extend that win streak when they return to action on Friday, Jan. 3 against Charlestown in the opening round of the Rumble on the River Tournament at Southwestern.

TC falls to Montgomery

Trimble County boys basketball lost 93-57 at home to Montgomery County on Wednesday.

Dylan Jennings led the Raiders with 16 points, Reece Webster had 12 and Ryan Long scored 11.

Trimble, now 2-6 on the season, travels to Franklin County on Saturday.

Hanover men fall to No. 3 Wittenberg

sports@madisoncourier.com

Third-ranked Wittenberg (Ohio) pulled away for a 69-52 win over Hanover in men's college basketball Wednesday in Springfield, Ohio.

Wittenberg led 31-22 at halftime and won the second half by eight to claim the win. Statistically the two teams were nearly equal but the Tigers' higher shooting percentage and 13 offensive rebounds proved to be the difference.

Hanover's starters managed just 13 points in the contest with Isaac Hibbard scoring 10 and Kevin Williams chipping in three. Connor Washburn and Carlos Garcia led the Panthers with 13 and 11 points, respectively, as both came off the bench.

James Johnson scored 14 points and Landon Martin and Jake Bertemes had 11 each to lead Wittenberg.

Hanover, now 6-2 on the season, returns to action Monday, Dec. 30 when the Panthers face Dubuque (Iowa) in the Wheaton (Ill.) Tournament.

Madison boys roll over New Albany

sports@madisoncourier.com

Madison's boys swimmers racked up another dual meet win and the girls came close to completing the sweep in a home meet with New Albany on Thursday.

The Madison boys scored nine individual wins and rolled to a 107.5-60.5 win while the girls had three wins and lost 88-79.

"We had so many incredible time cuts tonight and are still swimming a bit short-handed," Madison coach Ashley Schutte said. "These kids dig deep and find the best in one another with every meet — it is inspiring to watch them compete!"

Trenton Schmidt, Justin Banks and Carter Schutte picked up four wins each to lead the Cubs.

Schmidt won the 100-yard butterfly in 1:00.15 and the 500 freestyle in 5:37.48, Banks won the 200 individual medley in 2:06.63 and the 100 breaststroke in 1:04.45, and Schutte won the 100 freestyle in 53.73 and the 100 backstroke in 1:00.14.

Schmidt, Banks and Schutte teamed with Liam Roney to win the 400 freestyle relay in 3:36.02. Banks, Schutte, Roney and Peyton Ford combined to win the 200 medley relay in 1:49.71, and Schmidt teamed with Ford, Bryant and Bladyn Cardinal won the 200 freestyle relay in 1:43.78.

Emily Nay scored two wins and Anne Grady had one to lead the Madison girls. Nay won the 100 butterfly in 1:10.16 and the 100 backstroke in 1:15.31, and Grady won the 100 breaststroke in 1:25.91.

Other top finishes for the Madison boys were: Liam Roney, second, 200 free, 2:03.16 and 50 free, 24.71; Peyton Ford, second, 100 free, 58.46; Leighton Wielgoszinski, second, 500 free, 5:39.15; Marlon D'Onorio De Meo, Preston Kuppler, Adrian Guzman and Wielgoszinski, second, 200 free relay, 1:49.31; Bladyn Cardinal, third, 200 free, 2:11.55; Luke Bryant, third, 50 free, 26.07 and third, 100 fly, 1:04.59; Kuppler, third, 100 back, 1:13.26; Kuppler, Gavin McMahon, Bryant and Guzman, third, 200 medley relay, 2:01.80; and De Meo, Cardinal, McMahon and Wielgoszinski, third, 200 free relay, 4:12.37.

Other top finishes for the girls were: Katie Royce, second, 200 free, 2:25.08 and third, 500 free, 6:34.10; Trinity Stoner, second, 50 free, 29.56 and second, 100 free, 1:04.25; Callie Anderson, second, 100 fly, 1:19.24 and third, 200 IM, 2:57.18; Tabetha Jameison, second, 100 back, 1:20.22; Emily Nay, Anne Grady, Lucy Lynch and Stoner, second, 200 medley relay, 2:13.72 and second, 200 free relay, 1:57.92; Andie Royce-Miller, Anderson, Jameison and Royce, second, 400 free relay, 4:48.65; Royce-Miller, third, 200 free, 2:33.14; Lynch, third, 50 free, 30.60 and third, 100 back, 1:20.50; Haruna Sasaki, third, 100 breast, 1:34.05; Jameison, Sasaki, Anderson and Vanina Kelsey, third, 200 medley relay, 2:27.07; and Kelsey, Autumn Hedgepeth, Royce-Miller and Royce, third, 200 free relay, 2:18.70.

Madison will now have the next two weeks off from competition for the holidays and will return to action on Saturday, Jan. 4 when the Cubs host Corydon. But that doesn't mean the team won't be in the pool.

"Tomorrow, we celebrate the end of finals week and have our annual Iron Cub endurance swim challenge. It is a 10,000-yard practice consisting of 100-100's on a descending time," Ashley Schutte said. "Swimmers who are able to finish, will swim 10 sets of 10 100's for a total of 5.68 miles. We are forever amazed at how deep these kids can dig each year to learn what they are capable of!"

— Madison's junior varsity boys basketball defeated South Dearborn 41-33 at home on Friday.

Andrew Scroggins led the Cubs with 12 points while Carson Roark scored 11.

Madison, now 1-4 on the season, was to host Bedford North Lawrence Friday and travel to Austin on Saturday.

— Southwestern's jayvee boys basketball lost 65-30 at Jeffersonville on Wednesday.

Mitch Mingione had 11 points and Norman Jones scored nine for the Rebels.

Southwestern, now 2-3, was to host Jac-Cen-Del on Friday.

— Shawe's junior varsity boys basketball lost 83-42 at home to South Ripley on Wednesday.

Braedon Collins had 22 points while Louis Liu and Wyatt Nichter scored six points each to lead the Hilltoppers.

Shawe, now 1-4, was to visit Crothersville Friday.

— Madison's girls junior varsity basketball defeated Jennings County 43-24 at home on Thursday.

mance as a team. Billy Eccles also had 12 points on 3-of-12 shooting.

"Not only do we miss the offensive part of it, we miss the other parts of it and AK, Foster and Billy don't feel like they've got the whole world on their shoulders," Bomholt said. "These last two games were really tough."

Making matters worse for the Rebels was an injury suffered by Mefford less than a minute into the game. The junior all-star candidate came down hard on his right hip after a rebound and was limping after the game. Mefford declared himself "OK" afterwards but the injury sent shivers through the Rebel faithful.

Six-foot-six sophomore Will Lovings-Watts had an impressive double-double of 28 points on 11-of-14 shooting to go with 11 rebounds to lead Jeffersonville. Tre Coleman scored 12 points with 13 rebounds and Jacob Jones scored 14 points. As a team, Jeff shot 56% (32-for-57) from the floor, including 12-of-26 (46%) on threes.

Southwestern was to return to action on Friday when the Rebels were to host Jac-Cen-Del in an Ohio River Valley Conference game. Southwestern's next game will be in the Jefferson County Invitational Tournament at Madison next weekend.

"Harper came in and did a fantastic job," Bowyer said. "She had a ton of energy and that three she hit gave us a lift right from the start."

Lily Ernstes scored 19 points to lead Jennings County while Addyson Kent scored 16 and Kali Thompson had 11. The Panthers shot just 33% (16-for-48) from the floor, compared to 47.7% (21-for-44) for Madison.

The victory was Madison's first over Jennings County since the 2013-14 season and at 8-3, the Cubs are off to their best start to the season since that campaign.

Madison now sets its sights on Bedford North Lawrence, a squad that the Cubs have not beaten since the 2005-06 season, Saturday, before playing in the Plainfield Tournament over the Christmas break.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

1A No. 2 Trinity Lutheran stops streaking Lady Rebs

By ROB LAFARY
Courier Staff Writer
sports@madisoncourier.com

Southwestern came into Thursday night's much anticipated matchup against Class 1A No. 2 Trinity Lutheran riding the momentum of a five-game win streak since a Thanksgiving Eve loss to Madison. But much of what fueled that Lady Rebels' streak along with 10 wins overall on the season was a no-show on this particular night.

Struggling from the start, Southwestern never saw its game plan come to fruition and the result was a lopsided 69-47 loss at the King Gymnasium. While Trinity Lutheran walked in the favorite, Lady Rebel head coach Devin Brierly knew that her team was more than capable of an effort that would've allowed her team to compete with one of the best teams in the state.

"I'm pretty disappointed in our performance tonight to be honest with you," Brierly said of the game. "There's no sugar coating anything. I just didn't think our effort was there and our fight wasn't there like it has been. We gave up 69 points tonight and we usually are allowing under 50. That pretty much tells the story."

Trinity (10-1) raced out to a 15-3 lead at the end of the first quarter and never trailed by less than 10 points the rest of the way. In doing so, the Lady Cougars controlled the game and put to use both its height and guard play to get the job done.

Sydney James, a 6-foot-3 junior controlled the paint, and paced the early going with six first quarter points and broke up a 4-0 Southwestern run with a free throw that got the Cougars back in control. From there freshman guard Bailey Tabeling took over and sliced through the Rebel defense for seven points and Trinity led 27-14 at halftime.

Although Jaynes scored just two points in the second half, Tabeling continued her dominance over the final two quarters to score 16 points in the half and stretch the advantage. Hannah Sabotin, a 5-foot-10 forward, took over in the post and scored 17 points in the last two periods including 12 points in the fourth quarter to finish with 19 on the night.

Trinity led by as many as 23 points in the second half and Tabeling finished the night with a game-high 23 points. Jaynes finished with 11 while Kailene Cockerham was the team's fourth double-digit scorer with 10.

"We didn't follow the game plan and I'm not sure why that is," Brierly said. "Our game plan was to double down on Jaynes when she got the ball and she only scored 11, which I'm pleased with that, but our game plan was also to know where Tabeling was at all times and a lot of times we had no idea where she was at. We just let her do whatever she wanted. We have to pay attention to the fine details."

On the Southwestern side, the start to both halves overshadowed second and fourth quarters that saw the team outscored by just a combined three points. The Lady Rebels had a handful of mini-runs, including three 4-0 spurts that got the deficit to under 20 points, but never were able to execute consistently to make a serious run.

One bright spot was guard Ellie Foley who shrugged off early foul trouble and just two first half points to come away with 23 points on the game by scoring 21 second half points including 12 in the fourth quarter.

The rest of the roster mustered only a total of 24 points but five players did score in both the second and fourth quarters, allowing for the two best frames for Southwestern.

"We've got some time to figure some things out over Christmas break which will be nice," Brierly noted. "I was pleased with our fourth quarter comeback. We showed a little more enthusiasm but there's still a lot of work to do."

Southwestern (10-3) hosts its own Rumble on the River tourney Jan. 3-4 and will face both Charlestown and Switzerland County on the opening day.

BOYS BASKETBALL

South Ripley takes over in 2nd half to beat Shawe

Stuart scores 20 points in ORVC loss

By ROB LAFARY
Courier Staff Writer
sports@madisoncourier.com

Shawe stayed within striking distance of South Ripley's arsenal of length and 3-point shooters for a half but eventually the Raiders' weapons took control of the second half and overpowered the Hilltoppers 67-45 in boys Ohio River Valley Conference basketball on Wednesday in Madison.

The Hilltoppers trailed by just eight points at halftime but never threatened in the second half as the Raiders controlled the tempo and built up the advantage. South Ripley hit 13 3-pointers in the contest — including seven in the second half — handing Shawe its third loss in ORVC play this season and snapping a two-game win streak.

"(South Ripley) is long, athletic, they get the ball up and down the floor and this is a quality team," Shawe coach Dan Hambrick said. "I told our team that we hung with them for a half and I think we are heading in the right direction. We're doing some right things and the things we are doing wrong I think we can fix. I'm not dissatisfied. I hate losing but we are just seven games into the season. It's a 22-game season."

South Ripley (4-1, 1-0 ORVC) looked to run away with the game early, using a three-quarter court press to force early Shawe turnovers that led to points on the other end including a trifecta of 3-pointers by Cody Samples. The Hilltoppers, however, settled in and used four points apiece by Chandler Cole, Henry Grote and Ethan Stuart to pull within 18-12 at the first stop.

Samples cooled down for a quarter but seven points by Cory Ralston and four by Bryce Franklin allowed the Raiders another double-digit lead in the second period but yet again Shawe found a way to respond. Stuart hit a pair of buckets to go with two free throws and a late shot in the final seconds by Grayson May cut the deficit to 31-23 by halftime. Hambrick pointed out the margin could have been even smaller but a couple of lapses on offense prevented a two-possession game or less.

"We were 3-for-9 I think from the free-throw line there in the second quarter and we missed a couple of good looks from three," Hambrick noted. "It actually could have been a three or four point game at half."

In the second half the three-point shot took over and South Ripley's seven makes from the perimeter were huge as the lead stretched out and the Raiders pulled away for good. Of the seven made, five 3-pointers came from Samples who totaled eight for the night en route to leading all scorers with 26 points. Zach Gentile hit for two 3-pointers in the final two quarters, scoring 11 of his 16 points in that stretch.

The Raiders led 48-34 after the third quarter and used a 19-11 edge in the final period to win by 22 points after leading by as many as 27 in the fourth quarter.

"They're just a good 3-point shooting team and I'd rather get beat by 3-pointers than layups," Hambrick said. "It's not just one person it's their whole team. We knew we had to stop Samples but how do you stop such a quality player. Again Ripley is just a well-rounded team. That's a good basketball team and playing teams like this is going to make us better and ready to play in the postseason."

Stuart led Shawe with 20 points while Henry Grote added nine. May, who has struggled on offense early this season, snapped out of a slump and came away with eight points in the final three quarters, drawing praise from his head coach after the game.

"Grayson (May) has kind of been in a funk lately," Hambrick said. "I was glad to see him snap out of that. He stepped up and we need him in order to be competitive. We've talked before about how important having three or four scorers is. We need more than just Ethan (Stuart) and Henry (Grote) putting the ball in the basket."

Shawe (3-4, 0-3 ORVC) was to travel to sectional 62 foe Crothersville on Friday. The Hilltoppers then host Borden on Friday, Dec. 27.

Students learn to like themselves

Madison Rotary Club continues decades-long tradition

Rob Barlow, Lonnie Mason, Jeff Studds, Susan Studds and Don Heiderman from the Madison Rotary Club gave out copies of the book "I Like Me" to students at Anderson Elementary School early morning Tuesday, Dec. 17.

Kindergartener Jacob McCollum in his classroom at Anderson Elementary School looks at his copy of "I Like Me" by Nancy Carlson. (Courier staff photos by Elisabeth Moore)

Kindergarten students throughout Jefferson County received the book "I Like Me" from the Madison Rotary Club. At Anderson Elementary School, students Tenley Morgan (left) and Isaiah Edwards (right) were excited to receive a new book.

Courier staff report

For more than 20 years and two generations, kindergarteners throughout Jefferson County have been learning positive reinforcement through the help of the Madison Rotary Club.

Five members of the Madison Rotary Club visited Anderson Elementary Tuesday, Dec. 17 to pass out the book "I Like Me" to every kindergarten student at the school. This 32-page book by Nancy Carlson showcases positive reinforcement to help young children feel good about themselves. Each book contains customizable areas that allow people to write in the name of each student involved and their closest friends to make each book individualized.

The books were given through the sponsorship and donations of individual Rotarians and companies of Rotary members. Along with Anderson Elementary, the Madison Rotary Club also visited Lydia Middleton, Southwestern, Deputy, Rykers' Ridge and Pope John elementary schools to pass out these books.

145 families, 272 children receive Angel Tree gifts

By ELISABETH MOORE
Courier staff writer

Setting up at The Salvation Army started early Thursday morning as Lt. Stephanie Hartley and volunteers finished putting together the annual Angel Tree Toy Shoppe distribution. Before the day ended about 272 children and 145 families, were helped.

This annual event, which Hartley said she remembered helping her mother, also a Salvation Army officer, do when she was a child, provides families toys and necessities during the holiday season. This can include clothes, books, toys and anything else donated to The Salvation Army by community members and local businesses. This year's distribution included toys for all ages and even a few bicycles for participants to choose.

The Salvation Army's Angel Tree asks families to fill out a form that designates the items they need the most and then distributes the forms to community members, groups or local businesses so they can help donate the items each family needs.

This year, Hartley said, many items were donated, but a lack of volunteers made the distribution go slower than in previous years. While the volunteers available helped as much as they could, Hartley said, she is hoping for more volunteers for the events they have for the rest of the year.

"We are just very thankful for all of our donors and volunteers that were here today to make this happen for so many families," Hartley said.

Volunteers still are needed to help collect donations through the Red Kettle Drive outside local businesses. Donations for the drive will be accepted until Christmas Eve night to help fund the $120,000 goal that is needed to sustain services by The Salvation Army of Madison during 2020. The Salvation Army will still accept donations until the end of the year although the kettle drive will end before. Send donations to The Salvation Army by Dec. 31 at 331 E. Main St., Madison 47250 or stop by that address during business hours and drop off a donation.

For more information, call The Salvation Army of Madison at 812-265-2157, go to samadison.org or its Facebook page.

I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me.
For it is by grace you have been saved, through faith and this not from yourselves, it is the gift from God not by works, so that no one can boast

Looking Ahead

Have a non-profit, school or group event coming up? Have it published free in the "Looking Ahead" calendar.

Submit events online at www.madisoncourier.com or email them to zelda@madisoncourier.com

Special Events

Teen Volunteer Program: Teens can help with various projects and earn community service hours at the Jefferson County Public Library in Madison. Teens must complete the volunteer application and background check to attend. New applications are always being accepted. Registration is required. The schedule for volunteering is based on volunteer availability. To register or for more information, go to www.mjcpl.org or call the library at 812-265-2744.

Winter Reading: All ages of children and adults can participate in the Jefferson County Library's winter reading program. Pick up a card at any service desk. For each card completed, participants will win a prize. All children's entries will be put into grand prize drawings for gift certificates to McWiggins Wonder Emporium. Children can enter up to nine cards through Jan. 31. For teens, every five hours read, will earn a free book from a prize box. Teen reading logs will also double as a raffle ticket and names will be drawn for gift cards throughout this event. For adults, submit an entry form at either library for each book read and four gift card winners will be chosen each week.

BRIDGE

THREE STRINGS ARE BETTER THAN TWO

Caldwell O'Keefe said, "I never have found the perfect quote. At best I have been able to find a string of quotations which merely circle the ineffable idea I seek to express."

Is that the perfect quote for this deal? Probably not! But there is one word in it that works. How should South plan the play in four hearts after West leads the diamond jack?

If you are ever going to pass a 12-point hand, that North hand is it because you have to bid such a weak suit, one you do not want partner to lead should East buy the contract. However, North, a self-proclaimed bad card holder, refused to pass. Then they cruised into four hearts.

South could see four potential losers: two spades, one heart and one club. So, at first glance, he had two strings to his bow: the heart finesse and the club finesse. But in fact there was a third possibility.

After winning the first trick on the board, declarer ran the heart queen. West took the trick and safely exited with another diamond, resisting the temptation to shift to a club, which would have been fatal here.

South, leaving the club finesse dangling in the background, won with his queen, drew the missing trumps, then played a spade to dummy's 10. East won with his king and switched to a club, but declarer won with his ace and led another spade. Luck was in when West had to win with the ace, establishing the queen as the extra trick.

Note that if East had had the spade jack or ace-king, South would have still had the club finesse available.

Koontz to celebrate 50th anniversary

Donald Everett and Janet Kay Koontz will celebrate their 50th anniversary on Dec. 23. The couple was married Dec. 23, 1969 at the groom's family's home by Rev. William H. Adams.

Donald retired from the DNR Division of Fish and Wildlife and is a retired Union Carpenter. Janet retired from Dupont State Bank and is a retired homemaker.

They have three children: Jennifer D. Koontz of Commiskey, Indiana; Catherine M. Koontz of Commiskey; and Donald E. Koontz Jr. of Jacksonville, Florida. They also have six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

An open house was hosted on Oct. 19 by Catherine and Donald Jr. It was a surprise to the couple.

Economic abuse to spouse is still abuse

Annie Lane

Dear Annie: I've been married for nearly 32 years to a financially abusive bully. For many years, whenever I took out money that I needed without first seeking his approval, he'd punish me. His method for doing this was to ask me to go to the bank to get money out; when I'd try to do so, the tellers would let me know that there was not enough money in the account — because he'd withdrawn nearly all of the money and opened his own accounts without my name on them! Seeing the tellers whisper and snicker to each other was so embarrassing, and it was hurtful that he'd deliberately humiliate me that way.

Some years ago, an attorney told him never to do this, and for the past five years he has not. But to this day, if I take money out of any account, even for something important, his dirty looks, silent treatment and yelling and screaming are unbearable!

I don't want to live like this anymore, but I'm afraid to leave. Any advice? — Bullied

Dear Bullied: Your husband's behavior is indeed abusive. The National Domestic Violence Hotline describes economic abusers as achieving power over their partners in some of the following ways: "preventing her from getting a job; making her ask for money; giving her an allowance; taking her money; not letting her know about or have access to family income." To demean someone this way, to deliberately make them feel small and powerless, is the opposite of love.

For your safety, it's important to formulate an exit strategy that includes the support of a counselor, legal adviser and at least one trusted friend. For further guidance, I'd encourage you to call the National Domestic Violence Hotline (1-800-799-7233), which is available 24/7, or go to their website (thehotline.org). Hold fast to the knowledge that you are worthy of so much more.

Dear Annie: About two years ago, my husband had a relationship with another woman. The only reason I found out was that she called my home and told me all the sordid details. He then admitted it was all true. My question to you now is: Should I trust him again or leave him? — Tortured

Dear Tortured: Indeed, those are the options — because you cannot stay with him without trusting him. But you can't simply force yourself to trust him, either. You're going to need a lot of help to get to that point.

Talk to your husband about seeking out that help together through marriage counseling. Know that counseling doesn't have to be an indefinite, ongoing thing; even a few sessions can help equip you both with tools for repairing trust and rebuilding your relationship. By doing the work, you two can come out the other side with a stronger foundation than ever.

Dear Annie: My grown children don't really need anything for Christmas, so this year I did a family history for them. I have books that were put together by my mother and cousins. I also copied old pictures of my parents, grandparents and great-grandparents.

I sent some to my younger siblings, too, because I realized while talking to them that they were getting some of the family history wrong, and I wanted them to know the correct information. — Jill, Washington

Dear Jill: What a beautiful gift, honoring your family in such a way. That is something that everyone will keep for years to come. Thank you for sharing.

"Ask Me Anything: A Year of Advice From Dear Annie" is out now! Annie Lane's debut book — featuring favorite columns on love, friendship, family and etiquette — is available as a paperback and e-book. Go to http://www.creatorspublishing.com for more information. Send your questions for Annie Lane to dearannie@creators.com.
